SOS-someone over shoulder

SOS is a texting and chatting acronym that means someone over shoulder. It is used to warn the message recipient to be careful what he or she types since another person on the other end is watching.

Someone over shoulder gone

SOSG (someone over shoulder gone) is an acronym chatters use to say they're now alone - because the person who was previously in the room with them has left. It's usually deployed as a follow-up to POS, KOS, COS, HOS, or WOS, which are all warnings that someone else is in the room (and could read the person's chat).
